Twirling into top group

Boys ballet senior class at Tring Park.

DANCERS have twirled their way into the books of a top ballet company.

The American Ballet Theatre is so impressed with dancers at Tring Park School that it has pledged to source all its young performers from there.

A total of 19 junior dancers were recently chosen to perform with the company at the London Coliseum from April 2 to 4 in the ballet Le Corsaire.

The ballet theatre group first approached the performing arts school following a recommendation from the English National Ballet.

Principal Stefan Anderson said: "Over the years Tring Park has earned a reputation for developing and nurturing talented young dancers, many of which are now with leading dance companies.

"We are extremely proud of the girls and boys who were chosen by the American Ballet Theatre."
