Yesterday Tring Park held its final whole school Open Day of the season. Open Days are always such positive and uplifting occasions as new faces full of hope and expectation enter through our doors, often for the very first time, eager to see what we do and wondering if this remarkable place might become their new home one day.

They are met by our equally excited students, brimming with enthusiasm and pride for their school and for their vocation. Our guests tour the school and the feedback we receive is that our student guides are unfailingly polite, eloquent, confident and a credit to the school in every way.

The day culminates with a performance in the theatre that highlights each of the courses. The whole day is a wonderful celebration of Tring Park and all of the people who make it possible.

What better way to head off for a Bank Holiday exeat? Enjoy your long weekend.

Galantries

This week marked the opening of The Encore Show at the Markova Theatre. The energy in the house was electric as our dancers took to the stage for the first run of performances, bringing a diverse and demanding programme to life. A true highlight of this year's programme is the inclusion of Galantries, a sophisticated and spirited work choreographed by the world-renowned Sir David Bintley.

The piece was originally commissioned for The Royal Ballet and made its world debut on the international stage at the 1986 Expo Festival in Vancouver. This year marks the 40th anniversary of this exquisite piece.

We are absolutely delighted and deeply honoured that Sir David Bintley granted our dancers the opportunity to stage this work. Having such a significant piece of ballet history entrusted to our company is a testament to the hard work and technical strength of our performers.

LAMDA Results!

LAMDA - The latest results are in. Twenty-One students entered and Twenty-One students gained a Distinction. A very impressive result. Congratulations and very well done to all students involved!

A day filming at the Grand Chapel Studios

The CMC students finished their long running "Live Sessions" project from their industry classes by spending a day filming and recording in the gorgeous Grand Chapel Studios. You may remember that Nathan Sykes from The Wanted came in a few months ago to audition the students and the winners fronted up two very different performances, showing the full range of our students' abilities. These were recorded live with the full Drummer film crew and will feature in series two of Stage Stars, so watch out for it!

This process has been invaluable for the students and showed them what a professional live shoot looks like. A massive thank you to the lovely Anneliese and Roberto @ Grand Chapel studios and Drummer TV, especially Sho Bhatia, for their support with this exciting project.

Stage Stars Launch Their YouTube Channel

Stage Stars have launched their official YouTube channel, which went live this week!

They're currently in an early testing phase and would really appreciate support from parents, families, and friends through subscribing, watching videos in full, and sharing the channel.
